Instructions for Participant

The information on Form 5498-SA is furnished to you and to the IRS by the trustee or custodian of your health savings account (HSA), Archer MSA, or Medicare Advantage MSA.

Box 2 shows the total contributions made in 2025 for 2025, including any made by your employer through a cafeteria plan (which are also reported on your Form W-2 in box 12 with code W) and any direct contributions you made outside of payroll. To figure the deduction for contributions you made directly (not through your employer), use Form 8889.

Important: Contributions your employer made (including amounts contributed through a cafeteria plan, reported with code W on Form W-2) are already excluded from your wages. Do NOT deduct those amounts again. Only your direct, after-tax contributions may be deductible on Schedule 1.

Box 3 shows the total HSA or Archer MSA contributions made in 2026 for 2025. None were made in your case.

Box 5 shows the fair market value of your account at the end of 2025.

Contribution limits. For 2025, the HSA contribution limit is $4,300 for self-only coverage and $8,550 for family coverage. If you are age 55 or older, you may contribute an additional $1,000 catch-up amount. Contributions exceeding your limit are subject to a 6% excise tax unless withdrawn timely.

Contribution Detail — 2025

The following detail reconciles your total 2025 contributions reported in box 2.

Source	Description	Amount

Direct (after-tax) contributions	Made by participant outside payroll	2,550.00

Your 2025 contribution limit is $9,550.00 (family coverage $8,550 plus the $1,000 age-55 catch-up). Your total contributions of $9,550.00 do not exceed the limit; no excess contribution exists.

Frequently Asked Questions

Why does my W-2 box 12 code W differ from box 2 on this form? Box 12 code W reflects only the contributions routed through your employer's payroll/cafeteria plan. Box 2 on Form 5498-SA reflects ALL 2025 contributions, including direct after-tax contributions you made yourself. The difference between the two figures is the amount you may be able to deduct on Form 8889 and Schedule 1.

Do I need to file Form 8889? Yes. Anyone who has HSA activity (contributions or distributions) during the year files Form 8889 with their return. Form 8889 figures your HSA deduction and any taxable distributions.

Can I deduct contributions if I take the standard deduction? Yes. The HSA deduction for direct contributions is an 'above-the-line' adjustment to income reported on Schedule 1; it is available whether or not you itemize.

HSA Eligibility and HDHP Requirements

To be eligible to contribute to an HSA, you must be covered under a qualifying high-deductible health plan (HDHP), have no other disqualifying coverage, not be enrolled in Medicare, and not be claimed as a dependent on someone else's return.

For 2025, an HDHP is a health plan with an annual deductible of at least $1,650 for self-only coverage or $3,300 for family coverage, and annual out-of-pocket expenses not exceeding $8,300 (self-only) or $16,600 (family).

Your account records indicate family HDHP coverage for the 2025 plan year, which supports the family contribution limit of $8,550 plus the $1,000 age-55 catch-up contribution, for a total eligible contribution of $9,550.

If you cease to be HSA-eligible during the year, your contribution limit may be prorated. The 'last-month rule' allows a full-year contribution if you are eligible on December 1, subject to a testing period.

Qualified Medical Expenses — Summary of IRS Publication 502

HSA distributions used to pay qualified medical expenses are tax-free. Qualified medical expenses are amounts paid for the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease, and for treatments affecting any part or function of the body.

Examples include payments to physicians, dentists, surgeons, and other medical practitioners; hospital and laboratory fees; prescription medications and insulin; eyeglasses, contact lenses, and hearing aids; and certain long-term care services.

Expenses that are reimbursed by insurance or otherwise are NOT qualified medical expenses and cannot be paid tax-free from an HSA. Keep records and receipts to substantiate that distributions were used for qualified expenses.

Note: Unreimbursed medical expenses also factor into other parts of the tax return. For example, the additional tax on early retirement-plan distributions does not apply to amounts paid for unreimbursed medical expenses exceeding 7.5% of adjusted gross income. The medical-expense itemized deduction uses the same 7.5%-of-AGI floor. These rules are independent of whether expenses were paid from an HSA.
