Cardmember Agreement (Full Terms)

Definitions. In this Agreement, 'you' and 'your' mean each applicant and co-applicant; 'we,' 'us,' and 'our' mean Liberty Bank, N.A., the issuer of your account. 'Card' means any card or access device we issue. 'Account' means your card account with us.

Using Your Account. You may use your account for purchases, balance transfers, and cash advances, subject to your credit line and the terms of this Agreement. You agree to use the account only for lawful transactions.

Your Credit Line. We assign a credit line and may change it at our discretion based on factors including your creditworthiness and account history. You agree not to exceed your credit line; if you do, we may decline the transaction or charge a fee where permitted.

Promise to Pay. You promise to pay us all amounts you owe on the account, including purchases, cash advances, balance transfers, interest, and fees, according to this Agreement, whether or not you sign a receipt.

Making Payments. You must pay at least the minimum payment by the due date each cycle. Payments must be made in U.S. dollars from a U.S. bank in the manner we specify. We may accept late or partial payments without losing our rights.

How We Apply Payments. We apply the minimum payment first to lower-APR balances and amounts above the minimum to the highest-APR balances, as required by law. Within a balance type, we may apply payments as we choose.

Periodic Rates and APRs. Your APRs are shown in the cost summary and on your statements. Variable APRs are based on the Prime Rate plus a margin and may change when the Prime Rate changes. A change in APR applies to new and, where permitted, existing balances.

How We Calculate Interest. We use the average daily balance method (including new transactions) for each balance type, applying the daily periodic rate (APR divided by 365) to the average daily balance and multiplying by the days in the cycle. We add interest to the corresponding balance.

Grace Period. You can avoid interest on new purchases by paying your entire New Balance by the due date each month. Cash advances and balance transfers begin accruing interest on the transaction date and have no grace period.

Fees. We may charge the fees described in the cost summary, including late payment, returned payment, cash advance, balance transfer, and foreign transaction fees. Fees are added to the corresponding balance and may incur interest.

Variable Rate. Variable APRs equal the Prime Rate plus a margin. If the Prime Rate increases, your APRs and your interest charges and minimum payment may increase. We use the Prime Rate published on a date we select each cycle.

Authorized Users. You may request cards for authorized users. You are responsible for all use of the account by authorized users and for ensuring they comply with this Agreement. You may remove an authorized user by notifying us.

Lost or Stolen Cards; Unauthorized Use. Notify us at once if your card is lost or stolen or you suspect unauthorized use. You will not be liable for unauthorized purchases reported promptly, consistent with the card network's zero-liability policy and applicable law.

Default. You may be in default if you miss a payment, exceed your credit line, make a payment that is returned, file for bankruptcy, or breach this Agreement. We may consider your overall account history in determining default.

Our Rights If You Default. If you default, we may, subject to law, increase your APRs to the Penalty APR, suspend or close your account, demand immediate payment of your balance, and report the default to consumer reporting agencies.

Collection Costs. To the extent permitted by law, you agree to pay our reasonable costs of collection, including court costs and attorneys' fees, if we refer your account for collection after default.

Closing Your Account. You or we may close the account at any time. If the account is closed, you must still pay all amounts you owe under this Agreement according to its terms.

Changing These Terms. We may change the terms of this Agreement, including rates and fees, subject to the notice and opt-out rights required by law. Some changes apply only to future transactions.

Credit Reporting. We report account information to consumer reporting agencies. Late payments, missed payments, or other defaults may be reflected in your credit report and may affect your credit score.

Telephone Monitoring and Contact. You consent to our monitoring and recording calls for quality and training, and to our contacting you about your account at the numbers and addresses you provide, including by text or automated means where permitted.

Military Lending Act. Federal law provides important protections to members of the Armed Forces and their dependents. If you are a covered borrower, certain terms may differ; contact us to learn more and to receive required disclosures.

Assignment; Governing Law; Severability. We may assign your account and this Agreement. This Agreement is governed by federal law and the laws of the State of Delaware. If any provision is unenforceable, the remaining provisions remain in effect.

Managing Credit and Your Credit Score

Credit scores are influenced by several factors. The information below is provided for general education.

Your credit score is influenced by several factors, generally including your payment history, how much of your available credit you are using (utilization), the length of your credit history, your mix of credit, and recent applications for new credit. Making on-time payments and keeping utilization low are typically the most impactful.

Credit score factor	Typical weight	What helps
Payment history	Most significant	Always pay at least the minimum on time
Amounts owed / utilization	Very significant	Keep balances low vs. limits
Length of credit history	Moderate	Keep older accounts open and in good standing
Credit mix	Minor	A healthy mix of account types
New credit / inquiries	Minor	Apply for new credit only as needed

If You Are Having Trouble Paying

If you are concerned about keeping up with payments, contact us before you miss a payment to discuss possible options. Nonprofit credit-counseling agencies can also help you build a budget and, in some cases, arrange a debt-management plan. For a referral to a counseling agency, you may call 1-800-388-2227 (a service of the National Foundation for Credit Counseling) or visit a reputable nonprofit counseling organization.

Beware of companies that charge large upfront fees and promise to eliminate your debt or repair your credit quickly; many of their claims are misleading. You can request your free credit reports from the nationwide credit bureaus to review your accounts.

Card Security and Identity Protection

Protect your account by keeping your card and credentials secure, reviewing your statement each month, and reporting suspicious activity promptly. We may contact you to verify unusual transactions. We will never ask you to share a one-time passcode with a caller; if someone requests your passcode by phone, it is a scam.

If you suspect fraud or identity theft, call the number on the back of your card immediately. You can place a fraud alert or security freeze with the credit bureaus, and you may report identity theft to the Federal Trade Commission. Monitoring your statements and credit reports helps you catch problems early.

Set up account alerts in the portal to be notified of payments due, large transactions, or when your balance exceeds a threshold you choose. Alerts are a convenient way to monitor your account between statements.

Fair Credit Reporting and Disputes

We furnish information about your account to nationwide consumer reporting agencies. Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, you have the right to dispute the accuracy of information we report. To dispute, write to us at the disputes address on this statement with your name, account number, the specific information you believe is inaccurate, and the reason. We will investigate and respond as required by law.

You are entitled to a free copy of your credit report from each nationwide credit bureau periodically and after certain events. Reviewing your reports helps you confirm that your accounts are reported accurately.

Rewards Program Terms

You earn 1% cash back on net purchases (purchases minus returns and credits). Cash advances, balance transfers, fees, and interest do not earn rewards. Rewards post after the statement on which the purchase appears and can be redeemed for a statement credit or a deposit to an eligible account, generally in increments specified in the program terms.

Rewards may be forfeited if your account is closed or seriously past due. We may change or end the rewards program with notice as required by law. Rewards have no cash value until redeemed and are not transferable except as the program permits.

Balance Transfer and Cash Advance Terms

Balance transfers let you move balances from other accounts to this card. A balance-transfer fee of 3% (minimum $5) applies, and interest accrues from the transaction date at the balance-transfer APR unless a promotional rate applies. Balance transfers do not earn rewards.

Cash advances include ATM withdrawals, cash-equivalent purchases, and certain transactions. A cash-advance fee of 5% (minimum $10) applies, interest accrues from the transaction date at the cash-advance APR, and there is no grace period. Your cash-advance limit may be lower than your total credit line.

Your Liability for Unauthorized Use

If you notice the loss or theft of your card or a possible unauthorized use, contact us immediately at the number on this statement. You will not be liable for unauthorized purchases when you report promptly, consistent with the card network zero-liability policy and applicable law. You may be asked to cooperate in our investigation, including providing a written statement.

To help prevent unauthorized use, sign your card, keep it secure, do not share your account number or one-time passcodes, and review each statement promptly. Report any transaction you do not recognize.

Changes to Your Account

We may change the rates, fees, and other terms of your account in accordance with your Cardmember Agreement and applicable law. For significant changes, we will provide advance written notice and, where required, the right to opt out by closing your account and paying off the balance under the existing terms. Continued use of the account after the effective date generally means you accept the change.

Additional Frequently Asked Questions

Q. Should I close the card after I pay it off?

Keeping a paid-off card open can help your credit by maintaining available credit and a longer credit history; closing it may raise your utilization on other balances. Consider your overall situation.

Q. Will paying early reduce my interest?

Because interest is based on your average daily balance, paying earlier in the cycle and paying more than the minimum both reduce the interest you are charged.

Q. What is the difference between the statement balance and current balance?

The statement balance is the amount as of the closing date; your current balance also reflects transactions posted since then.

Q. How do I dispute a charge?

Contact the merchant first; if unresolved, submit a written dispute to the disputes address within 60 days, per Your Billing Rights.

Q. Does autopay pay the full balance?

Only if you set it to. You can set autopay to the minimum, a fixed amount, or the full balance; paying the full balance each month avoids interest on new purchases.

Payoff Planning Worksheet

Use this worksheet to plan paying down your balance. Choose a fixed monthly amount you can pay consistently; the more above the minimum you pay, the faster you reach a zero balance and the less interest you pay.

Step	Description	Your figure
A	Current balance	_____
B	Monthly amount you can pay	_____
C	Minimum payment (from this statement)	_____
D	Extra above minimum (B minus C)	_____
E	Target payoff date	_____

Use the calculator in the online portal to estimate months-to-payoff for any monthly amount.

In your letter, give us the following information: your name and account number; the dollar amount of the suspected error; and a description of the error and why you believe it is a mistake. You must contact us within 60 days after the error appeared on your statement.

Your rights and our responsibilities after we receive your letter. When we receive your letter, we must do two things: (1) Within 30 days of receiving your letter, we must tell you that we received it. (2) Within 90 days of receiving your letter, we must either correct the error or explain to you why we believe the bill is correct.

The charge in question may remain on your statement, and we may continue to charge you interest on that amount. We will not close your account.

After we finish our investigation. If we made a mistake, you will not have to pay the amount in question or any interest or other fees related to that amount. If we do not believe there was a mistake, you will have to pay the amount in question, along with applicable interest and fees.

Disputes about the quality of goods or services. Cardmember Agreement (Summary of Key Terms)

How we calculate interest. We use the daily balance method (including new transactions). Each day we apply the daily periodic rate (the APR divided by 365) to the balance for each balance type, then add the results. Interest accrues from the transaction date and compounds daily.

Paying interest / grace period. Your due date is at least 23 days after the close of each billing cycle. We will not charge interest on new purchases if you pay your entire balance by the due date each month. We begin charging interest on cash advances and balance transfers on the transaction date.

Minimum payment. Your minimum payment equals the greater of $35 or 2% of the new balance, plus any past-due amount and any amount over your credit limit, plus billed interest and fees, rounded as described in your agreement.

Fees. Late payment fee up to $40; returned-payment fee up to $40; cash-advance fee 5% (minimum $10); balance-transfer fee 3% (minimum $5); foreign-transaction fee 3% of each transaction in U.S. dollars. There is no annual fee on this account.

Penalty pricing and default. If you make a late payment, your APRs may increase. We may consider your account in default if you fail to make a required payment, exceed your credit limit, or a payment is returned. We report account activity to the major consumer reporting agencies.

Lost or stolen card. Notify us immediately if your card is lost or stolen or you suspect unauthorized use. You will not be liable for unauthorized purchases reported promptly, subject to the card network's zero-liability conditions.

How We Calculate Interest and the Grace Period (Detail)

We figure the interest charge on your account separately for each balance type (purchases, cash advances, balance transfers). We apply the daily periodic rate to the average daily balance of each type. To get the average daily balance, we take the beginning balance each day, add new charges and fees, subtract payments and credits, and divide the sum of the daily balances by the number of days in the billing cycle.

Your due date is at least 23 days after the close of each billing cycle. We will not charge interest on new purchases if you pay your entire balance (the New Balance) by the due date each month. If you do not, you will pay interest on purchases from the date each purchase posts. We begin charging interest on cash advances and balance transfers on the transaction date; those balance types have no grace period.

Penalty Pricing

If you make a late payment, your APRs may increase to the Penalty APR of 29.99% (variable). If your APRs are increased for a late payment, the Penalty APR may apply until you make six consecutive on-time minimum payments, after which we will return your APRs to the standard rates for new transactions.
