2025	$11,094.34

Assumes reinvestment of all distributions and reflects fund expenses; does not reflect account-level fees or taxes.

Principal risks. You could lose money by investing in the fund. The fund seeks to preserve a stable $1.00 share price but cannot guarantee it.

9. Account Rules and Reporting

Contribution limit. For 2025, the combined IRA contribution limit is $7,000 ($8,000 if age 50 or older) across all of an individual's traditional and Roth IRAs, and cannot exceed taxable compensation for the year.

Qualified distributions. A distribution of earnings is a qualified distribution if the five-year holding period is met and the owner is at least 59½, disabled, a first-time homebuyer (within limits), or it is paid to a beneficiary.

Contributions. Amounts contributed (as opposed to earnings) may generally be withdrawn at any time without penalty; ordering rules apply.

No lifetime RMDs. Roth IRA owners are not subject to lifetime required minimum distributions.

Excess contributions. Contributions above the limit are subject to a 6% excise tax for each year they remain; correct excess amounts by the applicable deadline.

Form 5498 & 1099-R. Larkspur reports contributions and year-end fair market value on Form 5498. Distributions, if any, are reported on Form 1099-R. This statement is not a tax form.

Beneficiaries. Review the beneficiary designation periodically; the designation on file generally controls disposition of the account.

10. Fees, Tax Reporting and Notices

Account custodial fee (annual)	$0 (waived for electronic delivery)
Fund expense ratios	0.03% – 0.11% (deducted within each fund's NAV)
Sales loads / transaction fees	None on Larkspur index funds
Advisory fee	Not applicable (self-directed account)
Year-end fair market value (Form 5498 Box 5)	$5,756.11
2025 contributions (Form 5498 Box 10, Roth)	$5,500.00

1. SIPC. Securities are protected up to applicable limits; SIPC does not protect against loss in market value. See www.sipc.org.
2. Past performance does not guarantee future results. Investment returns and principal value will fluctuate; shares may be worth more or less than cost when redeemed.
3. Cost basis. Larkspur reports average cost for mutual fund shares unless another permitted method is elected in writing.
4. Electronic delivery. You are enrolled in e-delivery; paper documents are available at no charge on request.
5. Proxy voting & business continuity information is available on request.
6. Review this statement promptly and report any discrepancy within 30 days.

Appendix A — Tax Lot Detail (Open Lots)

Open tax lots held at period end, by acquisition date. Cost basis uses the average cost convention for mutual fund shares. Lot share totals reconcile to holdings in Section 2 and lot cost totals reconcile to total cost basis.

Appendix C — Benchmark and Index Definitions

Larkspur Total US Stock Index (LTSMX). Seeks to track a broad index of the investable U.S. equity market across large-, mid-, and small-cap stocks, weighted by float-adjusted market capitalization.

Larkspur Total International Stock Index (LTISX). Seeks to track a broad index of developed- and emerging-market equities outside the United States.

Larkspur US Aggregate Bond Index (LABDX). Seeks to track a broad investment-grade U.S. taxable bond index spanning Treasury, agency MBS, and investment-grade corporate securities.

Larkspur International Bond Index (LIBDX). Seeks to track a broad index of investment-grade non-U.S. government and corporate bonds; currency exposure may be partially hedged.

Larkspur Real Estate (REIT) Index (LREIX). Seeks to track an index of publicly traded REITs and real-estate operating companies across property sectors.

Larkspur Federal Money Market (LFMXX). Seeks current income consistent with preservation of capital and liquidity via short-term U.S. government securities and repurchase agreements.

Indexes are unmanaged and it is not possible to invest directly in an index. Index returns do not reflect fund expenses.

Appendix D — Net Asset Value History by Month

Month-end net asset value per share for each fund held. These are the prices applied to reinvested contributions and dividends during the period; the December values equal the closing prices used in the holdings on page 2.
