13. Definitions and Methodology

Gross royalties. Total amounts collected on the payee's behalf from all sources before deduction of foreign withholding tax and administration commission.

Streaming-mechanical. The mechanical royalty component generated by interactive streams, collected under blanket or compulsory mechanical licenses.

Public-performance royalty. Compensation for the public performance of a musical work, collected by performing-rights organizations and affiliated foreign societies.

Foreign-source royalty. Royalty income sourced to a territory outside the United States, generally based on the territory in which the underlying use occurred.

Withholding at source. Income tax deducted by a foreign paying agent or tax authority before the royalty is remitted to Meridian.

Posting month. The calendar month in which Meridian received and recorded the underlying remittance, which lags end-user consumption.

Reference rate. The month-end currency conversion rate applied to translate foreign-currency receipts into U.S. dollars.

14. Tax-Withholding Policy, Terms and Disclosures

1. Meridian Sound LLC acts as an administrator and collection agent. This statement is an account of royalties collected and distributed; it is not a tax return, tax form, or tax advice.

2. Foreign income tax may be withheld on royalties at rates set by each paying territory. Where valid treaty documentation (e.g., a residency certificate or the applicable beneficial-owner declaration) is on file before the remittance date, a reduced treaty rate may apply. Absent such documentation, the territory's statutory rate is applied.

3. Foreign tax withheld is remitted by the paying agent to the applicable foreign authority. Meridian does not recover or refund foreign tax withheld and does not provide tax advice.

4. Currency translation. Foreign-currency receipts are converted to U.S. dollars at Meridian's month-end reference rate for the posting month. Realized conversion differences, if any, are reflected in the net amount distributed.

5. Administration commission is calculated on gross amounts collected and varies by income type and territory; the composite rate for the period is shown in Section 9.

6. Reserves and adjustments. Certain DSP and society remittances are subject to retroactive adjustment. Prior-period corrections received during the reporting period are included in current-period totals.

7. Recordkeeping. The payee should retain this statement with their tax records. Questions regarding amounts should be directed to payee support within 90 days of the statement date.

8. This statement reflects activity for the named payee account only and supersedes any interim or quarterly statements previously issued for the same period.
