Note on token-for-token exchanges.

Two 2025 transactions were token-for-token exchanges rather than sales for U.S. dollars: a Dogecoin-to-USD Coin exchange (February 5, 2025) and an Ethereum-to-Solana exchange (April 10, 2025). For each, Box 1f reflects the fair market value of the property received at the time of the exchange; no U.S. dollars were withdrawn.

Note on stablecoin redemption.

A redemption of USD Coin to U.S. dollars on December 10, 2025 is shown with Box 1f equal to the redemption amount.

Buy establishes cost basis; the broker is not required to report basis to the IRS for 2025. Sells and exchanges are dispositions. The outbound transfer of 1,000,000 FROGE on October 5, 2024 was a movement to self-custody and is not a taxable event, but the units left this account on that date.

Cost Basis & Reporting Methodology

Gross proceeds (Box 1f).

Gross proceeds equal the total U.S. dollar amount, plus the fair market value of any digital assets or other property received, in a sale or exchange, before reduction for any transaction costs.

Noncovered securities (Box 9).

A digital asset is a noncovered security if it was acquired before the broker's basis-reporting obligation took effect, or if it was transferred into the account without complete basis information. For noncovered securities, the broker reports proceeds but not basis, acquisition date, or gain/loss.

Basis not reported for 2025.

For the 2025 tax year, brokers must report gross proceeds but are not required to report adjusted basis. Accordingly, Boxes 1d, 1g, 1h, 1i, 2, and 6 are blank on the dispositions in this statement.

Exchanges of one digital asset for another.

For an exchange of one digital asset for another, Box 1f shows the fair market value of the property received, measured at the time of the exchange.

Lot relief.

Coinhaven does not elect a tax lot-relief method on your behalf.

Reference pricing.

Market values use Coinhaven's composite reference price at 4:00 p.m. ET on the stated date. Reference prices are indicative and may differ from execution prices.
