Cost Basis Reporting — Covered and Noncovered Securities

Covered securities are those acquired on or after the applicable effective date for the security type, for which brokers must report adjusted cost basis to the IRS on Form 1099-B (Box D for long-term, Box A for short-term). The figures shown for those lots include any adjustments required by the wash-sale rules.

Noncovered securities (Box E for long-term) are those acquired before the effective date or transferred in without basis. For these lots the broker reports gross proceeds only. The acquisition cost carried in account records is presented in the year-end investment report so that the recipient can determine the reportable gain or loss.

Wash-sale adjustments are applied at the lot level when a security sold at a loss is replaced by a substantially identical security within the 30-day window before or after the sale. The disallowed loss is shown as a positive adjustment (code W) and increases the basis of the replacement lot.

Qualified dividends are a subset of ordinary dividends that meet the holding-period requirements and are eligible for the reduced capital-gain tax rates. Exempt-interest dividends are not included in ordinary dividends and are reported separately.

Instructions for Recipient

Form 1099-INT, Box 1. Shows taxable interest paid to you during the calendar year. This may include interest credited by a money-market sweep program. Report on Schedule B if required.

Form 1099-INT, Box 3. Shows interest on U.S. Savings Bonds, Treasury bills, notes, and bonds. This interest is exempt from state and local income tax but is subject to federal tax.

Form 1099-INT, Box 8. Shows tax-exempt interest. Tax-exempt interest is not reported here when paid as exempt-interest dividends by a regulated investment company; see Form 1099-DIV Box 12 in that case.

Form 1099-DIV, Box 1a. Shows total ordinary dividends that are taxable. Include this amount on the dividend line of your return.

Form 1099-DIV, Box 1b. Shows the portion of Box 1a that may be eligible for reduced capital gain tax rates, provided the holding-period requirement is met.

Form 1099-DIV, Box 2a. Shows total capital gain distributions from a regulated investment company or real estate investment trust. These are long-term regardless of how long you held the investment.

Form 1099-DIV, Box 5. Shows the portion of the amount in Box 1a that may be eligible for the qualified business income deduction under section 199A (e.g., REIT dividends).

Form 1099-DIV, Box 7. Shows foreign tax paid. You may be able to claim this as a deduction or a credit on your return. A credit may be claimed without filing Form 1116 if your total creditable foreign tax does not exceed the applicable limit for your filing status.

Form 1099-DIV, Box 12. Shows exempt-interest dividends from a mutual fund or other regulated investment company. This amount is generally not subject to federal income tax.

Form 1099-DIV, Box 13. Shows the portion of Box 12 that is a specified private activity bond interest dividend, which may be a preference item for the alternative minimum tax.

Form 1099-B, covered vs. noncovered. For covered securities, the broker reports the adjusted cost basis to the IRS. For noncovered securities, only the gross proceeds are reported; you are responsible for determining and reporting the basis.

Form 1099-B, wash sales. A loss on the sale of a security may be disallowed if a substantially identical security is acquired within 30 days before or after the sale. A disallowed amount is shown as an adjustment with code W.

Holding period. Short-term means held one year or less; long-term means held more than one year. Long-term gains may qualify for reduced rates.

Reconciliation. Use the realized gain and loss detail and the Form 8949 reconciliation summary to complete Form 8949 and Schedule D. The totals on those schedules should agree with the amounts reported here, after any adjustments you are required to make.
