SIPC Protection & Important Disclosures

Securities in your account are protected up to applicable limits by the Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC). SIPC protects against the loss of cash and securities held by a customer at a financially troubled brokerage firm; it does not protect against a decline in the market value of securities.

Investments are not FDIC insured, are not bank guaranteed, and may lose value. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results.

Please review this statement carefully and report any discrepancy promptly. This statement reflects the activity and positions in your account for the period shown.

Definitions & Customer Service

Cost basis. The original value of an asset for tax purposes, usually the purchase price, adjusted for reinvested distributions and corporate actions.

Unrealized gain/loss. The change in value of a security still held, equal to market value minus cost basis; not taxable until realized.

Covered security. A security for which the broker is required to report adjusted cost basis to the IRS upon sale.

Settlement date. The date on which a trade is final and ownership transfers.

Market value. The value of a holding based on the closing price for the period.

Customer service: (800) 555-0931. Fidelity Brokerage Services, Member NYSE, SIPC.

Estimated Income Schedule

The fund held in this account distributes dividends on a quarterly schedule. No distributions were paid during the period covered by this statement. Estimated future income is not guaranteed and depends on fund distributions and shares held.

Holding	Distribution frequency	Distributions this period	Reinvestment
Vanguard Total Stock Market ETF (VTI)	Quarterly	$0.00	Enrolled

Dividend Reinvestment Program

You are enrolled in the dividend reinvestment program for eligible holdings. When a distribution is paid, the cash is automatically used to purchase additional shares, including fractional shares, of the distributing security at the market price on the reinvestment date.

Reinvested distributions are taxable in the year paid even though they are reinvested rather than received in cash. Reinvested amounts are added to the cost basis of the position. You may change your reinvestment elections at any time.

Margin Disclosure Statement

This account is a cash account and does not have a margin feature. The following disclosure is provided for general information. Margin borrowing involves additional risk and is not available unless separately approved.

If margin were extended, you could lose more funds than you deposit, the firm could force the sale of securities in your account, and you are not entitled to choose which securities are sold or to an extension of time on a margin call.

Order Routing & Execution Disclosure

Consistent with SEC Rule 606, information regarding the firm's order routing practices for the prior period is available upon request and is published quarterly. The firm seeks best execution of customer orders, considering price, speed, and likelihood of execution.

For the securities held in this account, orders are routed to market centers selected to obtain favorable execution. You may request the identity of the venue to which your individual orders were routed.

Business Continuity Plan Summary

The firm maintains a business continuity plan addressing significant business disruptions. The plan is designed to enable the firm to continue critical operations, recover data, and provide customers access to funds and securities in the event of a disruption.

Depending on the severity and scope of a disruption, alternate means of communication and processing may be used. The plan is reviewed and updated periodically. A summary is available upon request.

Tax Reporting Information

A consolidated Form 1099 will be furnished after year end if reportable activity occurs in your account, such as dividends, interest, or proceeds from sales. For the period shown, no sales occurred and no distributions were paid.

Cost basis for covered securities is tracked and will be reported on Form 1099-B in the year of any sale. Retain your statements to support cost basis and holding periods for tax purposes.

Account Protection & Regulatory Notices

Free credit balances may be swept to a program bank or money market position as elected. The firm is a member of FINRA and SIPC. A brochure describing SIPC protection is available at sipc.org or upon request.

This statement should be retained for your records. Verify all entries and report any discrepancy to the firm promptly. Errors not reported within the time frame stated in your account agreement may affect your rights.

Householding, Proxy & BrokerCheck Notices

To reduce duplicate mailings, the firm may deliver a single copy of certain documents to customers sharing an address (householding). You may request separate copies at any time at no charge.

Proxy materials for securities you hold are made available so you may vote your shares. The firm's Statement of Financial Condition is available upon request. Information about the firm and its registered persons is available through FINRA BrokerCheck.
