Applicable taxes are withheld from the signing bonus at the supplemental wage withholding rate in effect at the time of payment. The repayment obligation, if triggered, is based on the gross amount of the signing bonus.

This provision does not alter the at-will nature of your employment.

Schedule D — Annual Performance Bonus Plan

You will be eligible to participate in the firm's discretionary annual bonus plan. Bonus awards are determined based on individual performance, team and firm results, and other factors the firm considers relevant.

Bonuses, if awarded, are typically paid following the close of the performance year and are subject to applicable tax withholding. Bonus awards are discretionary and are not guaranteed in any year. You must generally be employed and in good standing on the payment date to receive a bonus.

Schedule E — 401(k) Retirement Plan Summary

Eligibility

You are eligible to participate in the firm's section 401(k) plan in accordance with the plan's entry rules.

Elective deferrals

You may elect to defer a portion of your eligible compensation on a pre-tax basis, subject to the annual IRS limit. Deferrals reduce your federal taxable wages but remain subject to Social Security and Medicare taxes.

Employer contributions

The plan may provide employer matching or other contributions as described in the summary plan description.

Vesting

Your own elective deferrals are always fully vested. Employer contributions, if any, vest according to the plan's vesting schedule.

Investment elections

You direct the investment of your account among the options available under the plan.

Schedule F — Health & Welfare Benefits

You are eligible to enroll in the firm's medical, dental, and vision plans. Premiums for elected coverage are deducted from your pay on a pre-tax basis under a section 125 cafeteria plan, reducing wages subject to federal income, Social Security, and Medicare taxes.

Benefit	Coverage	Premium treatment
Medical	Employee / family options	Pre-tax
Dental	Employee / family options	Pre-tax
Vision	Employee / family options	Pre-tax
Life & disability	Firm-provided basic coverage	Employer-paid

Schedule G — Flexible Spending & Other Programs

Depending on your medical plan election, you may be eligible to contribute to a flexible spending account or a health savings account on a pre-tax basis, subject to annual limits. Commuter benefit programs may also be available on a pre-tax basis.

Details of all programs, including enrollment windows and contribution limits, appear in the enrollment materials provided separately.

Schedule H — Relocation Assistance Policy

Relocation assistance, if applicable, is administered under the firm's relocation policy and is separate from the signing bonus. Relocation benefits may be subject to their own repayment terms if you depart within a specified period.

Certain relocation reimbursements may be taxable to you as additional compensation. Consult the relocation policy for details.

Schedule I — Paid Time Off & Leave

You will accrue paid time off in accordance with the firm's policy. The firm also observes designated holidays and provides leave as required by applicable law, including sick leave and family and medical leave where eligible.

Time off must be requested and approved in accordance with departmental procedures. Unused time off is handled as described in the employee handbook.

Schedule J — At-Will Employment

Your employment with the firm is at-will. This means that either you or the firm may end the employment relationship at any time, with or without cause and with or without notice. No representative of the firm other than an authorized officer may alter the at-will nature of your employment, and any such alteration must be in writing.

Nothing in this package constitutes a contract of employment for any specific duration.

Schedule K — Confidentiality & Proprietary Information

In the course of your employment you will have access to confidential and proprietary information. You agree to protect such information, to use it only for the firm's business, and not to disclose it to any unauthorized person during or after your employment.

Confidential information includes client information, deal information, financial data, methodologies, and any non-public information you learn in connection with your role.

Schedule L — Intellectual Property Assignment

Work product you create within the scope of your employment, and intellectual property arising from it, belongs to the firm to the extent permitted by law. You agree to assist the firm in documenting and protecting such rights.

This assignment does not apply to inventions you develop entirely on your own time without using firm resources, except as provided by applicable law.

Schedule M — Dispute Resolution

The firm and you agree to resolve covered employment-related disputes through binding arbitration, to the extent permitted by applicable law, rather than in court. This agreement does not prevent the filing of charges with government agencies where the law provides that right.

The arbitration will be conducted under the rules of a recognized arbitration administrator. Each party retains the right to seek interim relief where permitted.

Schedule N — Background Check & Work Authorization

This offer is contingent upon satisfactory completion of background and reference checks and verification of your identity and eligibility to work in the United States, including completion of Form I-9 with acceptable documentation within the required time frame.

As a financial services firm, additional regulatory background screening and registration requirements may apply to your role.

Schedule O — Code of Conduct & Personal Trading

You agree to comply with the firm's code of conduct and compliance policies, including policies governing personal securities trading, gifts and entertainment, outside activities, and the handling of material non-public information.

Personal trading may require pre-clearance and is subject to restrictions and reporting. Violations of compliance policies may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Acknowledgment & Acceptance
